Cygnet Raglan House Celebrates International Nurses Day

A hospital in Smethwick celebrated the impact of its nurses on the lives of individuals with mental health needs.

Cygnet Raglan House marked International Nurses Day on 12 May, recognising the vital skill, dedication and contribution of nursing professionals.

Located on Raglan Road, Cygnet Raglan House is a 25-bed high support inpatient rehabilitation (level 2) service for women with mental health needs.

The hard-working nurses enjoyed a variety of treats and gifts before two individuals supported at the Cygnet Health Care service shared their experiences with the nursing team.

Feven Zanos, Head of Care at the West Midlands service, said: "The stories from our service users were truly meaningful and were a reminder of the difference that compassionate care makes every day.

"Our nurses' hard work, professionalism and continued commitment to those in our care never go unnoticed and we are proud to work alongside such a dedicated team."

Shane Mills, Cygnet Group Director of Nursing and Quality, recognised the exceptional contributions of nurses across the entire organisation.

He said: "Across our services, nurses demonstrate compassion, professionalism, innovation and leadership in the care they provide to the people we support, across Cygnet Health Care and Cygnet Social Care services.

"Our nurses' compassion inspires hope, their courage transforms lives and their presence proves healing is possible. We are thankful for our nurses' unwavering dedication and the life-changing impact they make every day."

Cygnet Group has a 2,000-strong nursing workforce across England, Scotland and Wales, making it the leading health and social care provider's biggest profession.
